NURSE SERVICES

MEMORY SCREENING

Every Tuesday, Wednesday & Thursday

By appointment | FREE

According to the CDC*, "1 in 10 US adults 45 years and older reported worsening memory loss." As we age, sometimes it is hard to know if forgetting your keys is a harmless sign of aging, or something larger like dementia or Alzheimer's disease. If you aren't sure if your memory is a problem you should be concerned about, consider a free memory screening from Nurse Janet Stachula, RN!

The appointment starts with a discussion about you and why you'd like a screening. Then Nurse Stachula will administer the Brief Alzheimer Screen (BAS) and the General Practitioner Assessment of Cognition (GPCOG), which takes about 15 minutes. The results are available immediately. The screening concludes with a review of the results and information about keeping your mind active. If you don't pass the screening, it is encouraged that you follow up with your doctor. You take your screening results with you.

Taking advantage of this free resource will help you determine if your forgetfulness is innocent or if something more nefarious is at play. If there is a larger issue, having all the facts will help plan for the future and could reduce anxiety about the unknown. Reach out to Nurse Stachula today at 847-285-4551 to learn more.
